Top Peter Gabriel Songs Ranked by Popularity

Ranking Peter Gabriel's songs by popularity involves examining both commercial success and fan reception. His solo career, launched after departing from Genesis, includes several tracks that have become staples in rock music. These songs showcase his ability to blend rock, pop, and world music elements, creating a unique sound that resonates globally.

"Solsbury Hill"

"Solsbury Hill" is widely regarded as one of Peter Gabriel's signature songs, released as his debut solo single in 1977. The track features a distinctive 7/4 time signature and introspective lyrics inspired by Gabriel's departure from Genesis. Its uplifting melody and personal narrative have made it a timeless classic and a symbol of artistic liberation.

“In Your Eyes”

Known for its emotional depth and captivating instrumentation, “In Your Eyes” from the album So (1986) is celebrated for its fusion of Western pop with African musical influences. The song’s heartfelt lyrics and vibrant percussion create a powerful expression of love and connection, amplified by its memorable music video and use in popular culture.

“Sledgehammer”

“Sledgehammer” stands out as Gabriel’s most commercially successful single, topping the Billboard Hot 100 in 1986. The song’s funky groove, innovative horn arrangements, and groundbreaking stop-motion animated video contributed to its widespread acclaim. It remains a definitive example of Gabriel’s willingness to experiment with different sounds and visuals.

Other Notable Songs

Beyond these hits, several other songs have solidified Peter Gabriel’s reputation as a creative force. Tracks such as “Don’t Give Up,” “Big Time,” and “Red Rain” demonstrate his versatility and emotional range, while “Biko” highlights his commitment to political and social issues.

- “Don’t Give Up” – A poignant duet about perseverance and hope.
- “Big Time” – A satirical take on materialism and success.
- “Red Rain” – A dramatic, atmospheric track with powerful vocal delivery.
- “Biko” – A protest song dedicated to anti-apartheid activist Steve Biko.
