Understanding Wordle Gameplay and Rules

Wordle is a daily word puzzle game where players have six attempts to guess a secret five-letter word. Each guess must be a valid five-letter word, and after submission, the game provides feedback indicating which letters are correct and in the right position, which letters are correct but in the wrong position, and which letters are not in the word at all. This feedback is color-coded, typically green for correct placement, yellow for correct letter wrong place, and gray for incorrect letters. The goal is to use these clues to deduce the correct word within the allowed guesses.

How Feedback Works

The feedback mechanism is central to Wordle's gameplay. After each guess, the game highlights letters in three distinct colors:

- Green: The letter is correct and in the exact position.
- Yellow: The letter exists in the word but is in the wrong position.
- Gray: The letter does not appear in the word at all.

Players use this feedback to refine their subsequent guesses, eliminating impossible letters and testing new hypotheses.

Rules for Guessing

Players must enter valid five-letter English words with each guess. Non-words or words that are not recognized by the game's dictionary are rejected. The challenge includes both vocabulary knowledge and logical deduction, as players must balance guessing common letters and testing positional hypotheses. The six-guess limit adds pressure, requiring strategic thinking and careful consideration of each input.
