Types of WotLK Mounts

The Wrath of the Lich King expansion features a variety of mounts designed to suit different gameplay needs and player preferences. Mounts are generally categorized into ground mounts, flying mounts, and special mounts, each offering unique benefits and uses. This section explores these types to provide a clear understanding of what players can expect when seeking mounts in WotLK.

Ground Mounts

Ground mounts are fundamental for faster travel across continents and zones in Northrend. These mounts typically require a riding skill of Apprentice Riding (level 20) and allow players to move up to 60% faster on land. Common ground mounts include horses, wolves, and raptors, varying by faction and race.

- Horses and Wolves: Standard mounts for Alliance and Horde respectively.

- Reins of the Black War Bear: A notable ground mount obtained through PvP or dungeons.
- Ice Mammoth Mounts: Larger mounts introduced in WotLK, often used for group transport.

Flying Mounts

Flying mounts revolutionized travel in Northrend, enabling players to bypass difficult terrain and enemy mobs. To use flying mounts, players must reach level 60 and achieve the Expert Riding skill, which allows flying at 150% speed. These mounts include gryphons, wyverns, and other fantastical creatures.

- Cold Weather Flying: Required skill to fly in Northrend zones.
- Epic Flying Mounts: Faster flying mounts obtained through reputation or achievements.
- Icebound Frostbrood Vanquisher: A unique flying mount awarded for reaching exalted with the Argent Crusade.

Special and Event Mounts

Special mounts are often tied to in-game events, achievements, or rare drops. These mounts add prestige and uniqueness to a player's collection. Event mounts such as the Headless Horseman's Mount appear during seasonal festivities like Hallow's End. Additionally, dungeon and raid mounts reward players for overcoming challenging encounters.

- Reins of the Bronze Drake: Dropped from the Vault of Archavon raid boss.
- Armored Razzashi Raptor: A rare drop from Zul'Aman, a WotLK dungeon.
- Swift Purple Gryphon: Purchased from vendors after earning reputation.

How to Acquire WotLK Mounts

Acquiring mounts in Wrath of the Lich King involves various methods including purchasing, farming, completing achievements, and earning reputation rewards. Understanding these acquisition methods is crucial to efficiently building a diverse and functional mount collection.

Purchasing from Vendors

Many mounts can be bought directly from faction vendors after reaching the required reputation level or having sufficient gold. These mounts often serve as the most straightforward way to obtain transportation, especially for faction-specific mounts.

- Reputation Vendors: Sell mounts once players reach revered or exalted status.
- Riding Trainers: Provide basic mounts after learning riding skills.
- Special Vendors: Occasionally offer mounts during events or expansions.

Dungeon and Raid Drops

Several prestigious mounts drop from bosses in dungeons and raids introduced in WotLK. These mounts are highly sought after due to their rarity and the challenge involved in obtaining them. Farming these bosses requires coordination and time investment but yields rewarding mounts.

- Reins of the Black War Bear from various dungeons.
- Drakes from the Vault of Archavon including the Blue, Red, and Bronze variants.
- Reins of the Swift White Hawkstrider from the Isle of Quel'Danas.

Achievement Rewards

Achievements introduced in WotLK sometimes reward players with exclusive mounts upon completion. These achievements often require significant effort, such as defeating difficult bosses or completing challenging questlines.

- Reins of the Ice Mammoth from the achievement “The Argent Champion.”
- Plagued Proto-Drake awarded for completing the “Glory of the Raider” meta-achievement.
- Frosty Flying Carpet from seasonal events and achievements.

Faction and Reputation Mounts

Faction reputation plays a significant role in unlocking exclusive mounts in WotLK. Each faction offers unique mounts that reflect their identity and lore. Players must engage in reputation grinding activities such as questing, dungeons, and daily quests to reach the necessary standing.

Alliance Faction Mounts

The Alliance factions in Northrend offer several distinctive mounts that showcase their nobility and strength. These mounts often require exalted reputation status and significant gold investment.

- Argent Crusade: Offers the Argent Charger, a white warhorse mount.
- Kirin Tor: Provides the Swift Purple Hawkstrider.
- The Silver Covenant: Grants the Silver Covenant Hippogryph, a flying mount.

Horde Faction Mounts

Horde factions also provide exclusive mounts that emphasize their cultural heritage and ferocity. Reputation with these factions unlocks mounts that are popular for both speed and aesthetics.

- The Sunreavers: Offer the Sunreaver Hawkstrider, a flying mount.
- Warsong Offensive: Provides the Warsong Dire Wolf.
- Frenzyheart Tribe: Grants the Frenzyheart Raiment and related mounts through reputation and quests.

Neutral and Other Faction Mounts

Certain neutral factions or special groups offer unique mounts accessible to both factions. These mounts often require completing challenging questlines or reputation grinds.

- Shattered Sun Offensive: Offers the Swift Dawnbringer, a drake mount.
- The Kalu'ak: Provides various aquatic mounts including the Kalu'ak Fishing Raft.

- Argent Tournament: Players can earn various jousting mounts by participating in this event.

Rare and Unique Mounts

Rare and unique mounts in WotLK are highly coveted due to their limited availability and distinctive appearances. These mounts often require extensive effort, luck, or participation in special events and activities.

Raid and Boss Mounts

Many rare mounts drop from raid bosses in Icecrown Citadel, Ulduar, and other WotLK raids. These mounts have low drop rates, making them prestigious trophies for raiders.

- Invincible's Reins: Dropped by the Lich King in Icecrown Citadel, one of the most iconic mounts.
- Reins of the Blue Proto-Drake: Awarded from the Malygos encounter in Eye of Eternity.
- Reins of the Rusted Proto-Drake: Dropped by King Ymiron in Utgarde Pinnacle.

Rare Dungeon Mounts

Certain dungeons have rare mount drops that are difficult to obtain but highly rewarding. These mounts often require multiple runs due to their low drop chances.

- Armored Razzashi Raptor from Zul'Aman.
- Reins of the Raven Lord from Sethekk Halls.
- Fossilized Raptor from the Nexus.

Event and Seasonal Mounts

Seasonal events such as Hallow's End and the Brewfest introduce unique mounts that are only available during specific times of the year. These mounts add variety and are prized collectibles.

- Headless Horseman's Mount during Hallow's End.
- Great Brewfest Kodo during Brewfest.
- Various holiday-themed mechanical mounts from Winter Veil.

Tips for Efficient Mount Farming

Successfully collecting mounts in Wrath of the Lich King requires strategy and persistence. Efficient farming techniques can reduce the time investment and increase the chances of obtaining desired mounts.

Reputation Grinding Strategies

Maximizing reputation gains with factions can unlock mounts faster. Focused questing, daily quests, and dungeon runs tied to faction reputation help expedite this process.

- Prioritize daily quests for consistent reputation gains.
- Participate in faction-related dungeon runs for bonus reputation.
- Use reputation-boosting items and buffs when available.

Raid and Dungeon Farming Tips

Repeating raids and dungeons with mount drops increases the likelihood of obtaining rare mounts. Forming groups with dedicated players can streamline farming efforts.

- Join or create dedicated mount farming groups.
- Run multiple instances per session to maximize kill counts.
- Track drop rates and plan farming accordingly.

Event Participation

Engaging in seasonal and special events ensures access to limited-time mounts. Planning ahead for these events allows players to prepare and maximize mount acquisition.

- Mark event dates and prepare in advance.
- Complete event-specific achievements related to mounts.
- Trade or purchase event materials when possible.
